The Del. Aware's 2022 Senior Edition

Person of the Year: Kevin Kearns

By LUCAS PAULEY
Opinions Editor

Cheerful, kind, helpful and outgoing are all qualities that made Mr. Kevin Kearns the Del.Aware's 2022 Person of the Year.

Before arriving at DV in 2013, Kevin worked a series of different jobs across the country. He worked with computers at International Business Machines (IBM), was a bartender and traded stocks.

Working these jobs taught Kevin how to solve problems and work better with people.

"I learned how to help people. Really, that is what it is about, helping people and solving problems," he said.

Before arriving in Milford, Kevin lived in numerous cities such as Minneapolis, Minnesota; Atlanta, Georgia; Chicago, Illinois; and outside Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Starting in 2013, he worked as a custodian before working his way up to the position of head night custodian. He recently changed to his current position as head day custodian.

As head day custodian, Kevin's responsibilities consist of opening the school's doors in the morning, setting up school events, moving packages, cleaning up spills, helping students with lockers and much more.

With the pandemic, custodians' workloads dramatically increased with the addition of more lunch spaces and the need to disinfect more often.

"The COVID-19 protocol that our custodians followed was tremendous. One of the reasons why Delaware Valley was able to stay open was the dedication of the custodians to the health and safety procedures that were put into place," high school principal Dr. Nicole Cosentino said.

Despite the stressful environment that COVID-19 presented, Kevin was always able to keep his upbeat and outgoing personality.

"I always look at everything like it could always be worse. There are people who have things way worse than I ever do. I am a pretty lucky and happy person who just enjoys life," he said.

As an employee, Kevin is dependable, professional and knowledgeable and is always looking to see what needs to be done throughout the building. Director of Support Services Mr. Marvin Eversdyke described Kevin as low maintenance because of the lack of attention he needs to do his job well.

"He is an all-around good employee. He does his own thing; he shows self-initiative, knows right from wrong and has good judgment. I don't need to give him a lot of my attention except for when he needs it," Mr. Eversdyke said.

Over the years, Kevin has built a strong relationship with the student body. The ability to brighten someone's day with a "how's it going" or "what's going on" has led to immense appreciation and praise from students.

"Our custodian Kevin is like no other. He is the most bubbly, smiley person ever. All the students love him. He helps everyone the best he can, even when he doesn't have to. I have never seen anyone who can keep a smile as strong as him," senior Mya Soto said.

Kevin also emphasizes the importance of the rest of his custodial team.

"We all are a team. We all work together, and everybody does their part," Kevin said.

"We are like a well-oiled machine. We just try to get everything done to make the school look as good as possible."

In his free time, Kevin likes to spend time with his family and friends, as well as go outside and enjoy the outdoors. He is also a fan of NASCAR and the New York Yankees. During holidays like Christmas and Halloween, he loves to embrace the festivities by decorating his house and throwing parties.

He loves seeing students participate in after-school activities such as Odyssey of the Mind, drama productions and sporting events. He also enjoys small interactions with students saying, "it can be something simple in the hallways, stopping and talking to somebody."

His favorite part about working at DV is the ability to make people happy with his job.

"My favorite part is dealing with everybody here. I love my job. I love coming in and seeing everybody. I just like making people happy," he said. "I love working at DV, I love the students, I love the staff and I love the whole support services."

His advice to students is to try and enjoy their time in high school as best you can and try to be kind to one another.

"Just be kind to each other. Be nice to each other. Not everybody gets along, but you can just be nice and move on. Help each other because we are all in the same boat," he said.

The head night custodian Mr. Denis Glamann said it best when describing the important role that Kevin plays at DV.

"Kevin just has one of those personalities where if he weren't around, the world would be a little bit darker. This place would be a little bit darker without him here. Wherever he goes, he seems to brighten up people's day a little bit," Denis said. Kevin is always spreading kindness each day throughout the school, no matter what he is doing. His cheerful and sweet personality has profoundly affected students who have struggled to get through a day.

He will be remembered by students who had the pleasure of interacting with him, long after they leave DV. On behalf of all the people whose day he has brightened, the Del.Aware would like to thank Kevin for everything he does.

Adviser of the Year: Mr. Richard Bullock

BY KYLA STEAD
World News Editor

With a great amount of responsibility at DV, Mr. Richard Bullock has been chosen as the Del. Aware's 2022 Adviser of the Year.

Mr. Bullock is the adviser for marching band, indoor winds and percussion and the musical director for the high school musical. For marching band, he writes all the music, designs the entire field show and writes pep songs each year.

When the school wanted to have a marching band seven years ago, the program started with students wearing polo shirts and playing through their show only at home games. Now the program is not only playing at away games, but they also compete against some of the best bands in the country.

Writing the music for the show takes 20-30 hours, designing the drill takes around a week over the summer and writing pep songs takes about a day each. In addition, Mr. Bullock secures the rights for every song played, is continually repairing instruments and much more.

He said recruitment is a year-round focus for the marching band.

"We are always looking for new members and to create an outlet for students," he said.

He said he is lucky to have parents and families who help with supplying food and keeping the band hydrated.

For the musical productions, there are auditions and then weekly rehearsals. The music is written for professionals, so it is especially difficult. With most high schools hiring professionals, he is extremely proud of the students who take part in DV's pit.

Mr. Bullock has been around music for most of his life. In fourth grade, he started playing the trumpet, and in sixth grade, he was a performer in a drum corps. It was a difficult transition, but he became a soloist in the group and later performed at the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. He marched for 11 years in the drum corps and later taught it for seven. His experiences have a direct impact on what he does today.

"I was always surrounded by the best, which is how I can always give my best to the students here," he said.

Mr. Bullock's favorite part of his job is watching students overcome challenges and realize their true potential.

"Watching new leaders step up and realize their full potential is an awesome feeling for a teacher, and I have the best leaders you could ask for," he said.

Managing everything can be difficult, so time management is important for him. He aims to make sure everything is running smoothly at school and also spend time with his wife and daughter. He said he is lucky for their support and understanding of the commitment he has made to his students.

To relax and not burn himself out, he makes time for watching sports, playing video games and doing constructive things around the house.

Teacher of the Year: Mr. Tyler Barnett

BY ALEX KRAKOWSKI
Managing Editor

Known for always being there for his students and his positive outlook on teaching, Mr. Tyler Barnett has been chosen as the Del.Aware's 2022 Teacher of the Year.

While he has been teaching for over 18 years now, he has been a social studies teacher at DV for eight years now teaching a variety of different classes including Peace Studies, Sociology, AP Human Geography and many others. The reason that Mr. Barnett got into this career was because "teaching more chose me," Mr. Barnett said.

Mr. Barnett also has a degree in anthropology which is one main reason that he wanted to teach social sciences. To him, this subject is the most interesting to learn and teach.

Prior to starting his teaching career, he attended multiple different colleges including Orange County Community College and the University at Buffalo. Later, he received his teaching certification through other colleges including the University of Virginia, Mary Baldwin College, Virginia Western Community College and East Stroudsburg University.

Originally, Mr. Barnett was interested in graphic art and design; however, as time went on, he found he was not in the place he wanted to be in life. Because of this, he turned to his mom for some advice to which she said that he should try teaching.

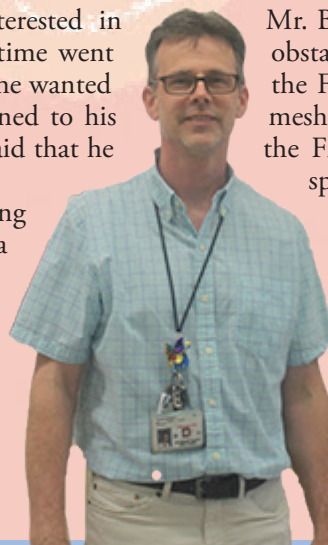

During his first year of a teaching like experience, Mr. Barnett was a long term substitute, and in the following year, he was solely an in school suspension teacher. After that, he worked to get his teaching certificate. Once he got that he worked at William Fleming High School in Roanoke, Virginia, and then later Roanoke Patrick Henry High School.

"The kids are my favorite part of teaching. They're the reason I'm here. The energy that they bring influences how I teach," he said.

Aside from his classes, he is also the adviser for the Fit Club and the Diversity Club.

Mr. Barnett originally had the idea for an obstacle racing type of club however since the Fit Club was already established, he's meshed the two together. At the moment, the Fit Club is mostly for students with special needs to have an after school activity that they can enjoy.

To all of his students: "Thank you, you allow me to do what I love to do. I want for you everything life has to offer. There are going to be ups and downs because life is not perfect. Find something you love to do because you only get one shot."

Personnel of the Year: Mrs. Sue Kelly

BY LIZ KAMEEN
Editor in Chief

Mrs. Sue Kelly, in charge of Student Management at the high school, has been a beam of positivity and joy at DV for the past eight years. She is known for her exuberant personality and desire to help anyone and everyone, which is why the Del. Aware staff is honored to announce her as Personnel of the Year.

Mrs. Kelly was a substitute teacher in the district before the COVID-19 lockdown. When school reopened, she accepted a secretarial position in the 9/10 office and will be entering her second year in this position.

"[Working with Mrs. Kelly] has been a real pleasure. She has a positive personality, always very willing to help anyone, and if she doesn't know the answer, she will find the answer," secretary Mrs. Carol Cordova said. "She deserves Personnel of the Year because of those qualities and because she is willing to help anyone who needs it."

Mrs. Kelly attended St. Johns University with a major in education in nursery school through 6th grade.

Growing up in Astoria, Queens, she moved to the district to provide a better life for her children and find that 'hometown feeling.'

"I think Delaware Valley helped me shine and show a positive attitude amongst my coworkers, the students that I had, all the students who come in the building and all the parents who come in the building," Mrs. Kelly said.

Her favorite memory of working in the district was being able to see her own children while subbing at various schools.

Mrs. Kelly handles various student relations, such as photographing all student activities, organizing student of the month, making sure that PowerSchool is up to date with student information and assisting administrators and her co-workers.

Mrs. Kelly is also known for her impressive decorative skills of the 9/10 office, always making it feel upbeat and ever-changing with each holiday. This helps her generate an infectious positive, both attitude inside and outside of the 9/10 office.

"Working here also gave me a better understanding of being a team player," she said.

Mrs. Kelly advises graduating seniors to: "do the best you can and have no regrets, as long as you're working 100%. Don't stress the small things and always be positive."

Outside of work, she enjoys hiking, sporting events, spending time with her family and cooking. She is best known for her fantastic cheesecake recipe.

Coach of the Year: Coach Karley May

BY EMILY HENN
Contributing Writer

Head girls volleyball coach Karley May took over the varsity volleyball program at Delaware Valley this past season. Because of her commitment to the team and their undefeated regular season record, she is named the Del.Aware's Coach of the Year.

"During my junior year of high school, I realized I couldn't be without volleyball. I started coaching Rafters, our travel team, and stuck with it," she said.

After taking over the program, her first season was very successful with an 18-1 record and a league championship title.

"Seeing everything coming together was relieving. I didn't know how it was going to go this year," she said. "I've gotten to work with these girls a lot, but I didn't know how they were going to work with a completely new staff."

Finishing off a strong season may be scary for some coaches, but for coach May, she is already looking forward to this upcoming season and accomplishing just as much.

"Always working hard and having a positive mindset is something I really want to focus on this season," she said.

Working out over the summer and getting as much competition in as possible is her goal. This will hopefully allow the team to clinch big wins against big teams.

This past season the Warriors knocked off two of their top teams in the conference.

"Defeating

Berwick was my favorite memory as a coach. Accomplishing all of these big goals with these girls was like a dream come true," she said.

Something coach May wants to improve upon for this upcoming season is more consistency. She wants there to be more consistent collaboration with both of the JV and varsity teams.

According to coach May, last season the team had so much drive and passion for the game of volleyball and they were focused on getting better every single day.

"Our hard working attitude and our domination in the conference is something that I am looking forward to this season," she said.

As a teacher, coach May was recently hired as a middle school science teacher.

"I feel like a weight has been lifted off my shoulders. I feel like an adult, and my life is going in the right direction," she said.

In order to get to the point where she is today, she has kept an open mind and said yes to every opportunity that came her way.

Liz Kamzen ~ Editor in Chief

Three hundred sixty days of journalism and only 400 words to say goodbye; where do I start?

Growing up, I was the quietest kid in the room, always hiding behind my parents' legs. If you told me that in a few short years, I would somehow win Most Sociable while being Editor in Chief of the Del.Aware, I would have probably laughed.

But, if I could go back in time, I would do everything exactly the same.

This position taught me to step out of my comfort zone and stand up for myself. It showed me what true passion is and how it feels to take pride in something greater than you, but most importantly, it gave me memories of a lifetime.

From picking up Naked Bagel before morning distributions, listening to "Closing Time" by Semisonic while I opened my college acceptance emails in class or being promposed to in a literal tube dude costume, I have certainly made my share of memories in D4.

Being able to say I graced the Wilkes Radio station with my love for The Smiths would be a big enough feat for high school journalism, but somehow, with Mrs. Lordi's constant help, I was able to accomplish Young Journalist of the Year.

So, to Mrs. Lordi, thank you for inspiring me to be the best journalist and person I can be and most of all, for inspiring me to enter a subject I love more than anything.

To Mr. Bates, thank you for always being there for me, with endless lessons, support, chocolate and water bottles; I cannot thank you enough. To Mr. G for always supporting journalism, and Mr. Pol for never turning down a fresh stack of poetry. Finally, to Mr. Bailer, thank you for guiding me to be the best attorney I can be.

DV provided me with so many opportunities and memories that I will never forget. I was able to meet my best friend in a freshmen French class and eventually win Class Couple with him four years later, compete in competitions all over the place and find passions I genuinely enjoy. For that, I can never repay my gratitude.

So, here's my parting advice: find something you love and follow it because those passions come few and far between. Take every opportunity that comes your way, and don't let regrets lead your life. You'll always regret stepping back from the jump, but you'll never forget the fall.

And with that, peace out, DV!

Alex Krakowski ~ Managing Editor

Three years ago during this time, a Del.Aware staff member stood up at the front of D4 and told us "enjoy this because these next three years will go by faster than you realize."

I've never forgotten that because when I look back now it couldn't be more true, even with the feeling of missing a year and a half of high school.

Ever since then I knew that I wanted to be a part of the newspaper, but I never imagined myself being Managing Editor back then. Seeing all of the staff members in and out of Mrs. Lordi's room all seemed hectic but fun at the same time.

Without the newspaper, I would probably not be who I am today even though most people don't realize, but I know that I am not the same person from four years ago.

I owe that partially to the Del.Aware and everyone I've met during my time on staff.

Thank you to Mrs. Lordi because every class that I've had with you are by far my favorite and the most memorable. Except for that time in Honors English 9 with the socratic circle.

And Liz, even though you might not remember dance class when we were younger, it's so crazy to think about how we ended up working on the newspaper so many years later.

To Ms. Fitzkee: Thank you for making all of the drama productions so much fun to be a part of. I definitely won't forget this year especially because of how much I got to know not only the crew but also the cast. So to the cast, since I didn't make a speech at the party, thank you. You're all so talented and I can't wait to come see each one of you in next year's shows.

Now looking back on the past four years and trying to come up with more things to say, it's hard to believe that in a few days I'll officially be done with school.

While I may have not had a crazy high school experience, I wouldn't trade it for anything else because the memories that I made with my friends are some of the best I've ever had.

These 400 words was a lot to write especially for someone who people think doesn't talk so I think this went pretty well.

Reilly Ziolkowski ~ Arts & Literature Editor      Sophia Perrin ~ Science & Technology Editor

My past four years have flown by in an instant. While I have gone through some rough patches, I have had great experiences and amazing people to help me through.

My sophomore year I lost myself trying to fit into the stereotype of being a perfect student and forgot what I really wanted to do. Then there was a pandemic, and I may not have learned a lot academically, but I realized my worth and figured out my future.

I would like to thank Mrs. Lordi and the Del.Aware staff for teaching me lessons I will bring into the real world. If Mrs. Lordi had not pushed me to try something new, I wouldn't be on the path I am today.

I would also like to thank Ms. Orben for the guidance and kindness she showed me. She went out of her way to make sure I understood what she was teaching my sophomore year and always checked that I was doing okay mentally. I aspire to spread the kindness she has shown me.

This is where it gets sappy. I'm writing this the week after my last OM competition. OM has been the thing I dedicated my life to over the past 11 years, and I dreamed of having this specific team since my freshman year. At the time, it was just a pipe dream; there were not supposed to be spots for the three freshmen who came up this year, but spots opened up, and my dream team came to fruition.

Thank you to my D-3 P-5 OM family for always being there to help me up when I fell down this year. I can't wait to see what your futures hold because whatever path you choose, you'll do phenomenal things!

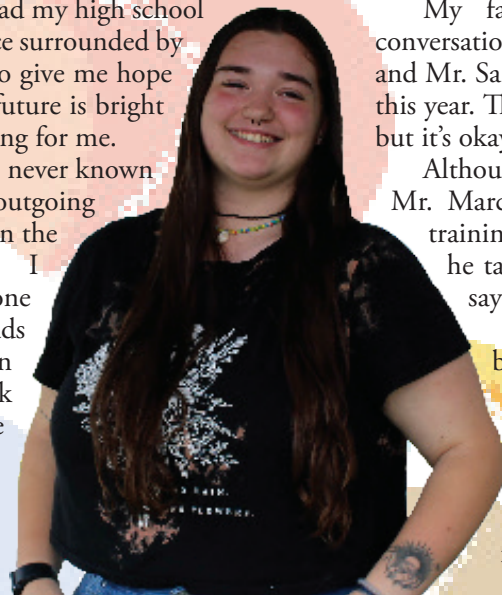

Despite what I've been telling everyone all year, I'm terrified of leaving Milford, Pennsylvania. I'm leaving the only place I've ever known, but I'm prepared to take on whatever the future throws at me.

With that being said, thank you and goodbye DV, this won't be the last TIME!

I have spent the last four years of my life at DV, and it has been a wild ride that I was not expecting. I have learned very valuable life lessons in my time here from teachers like Mr. Marcial. Life always finds a way to surprise you when everything seems to be going wrong, and this is true for me too.

I thought that high school would be the best years of my life, but instead they were only the beginning of a beautiful adventure. It has been a long road to the turf for graduation, and I am honored to have had my high school experience surrounded by those who give me hope that the future is bright and waiting for me.

I was never known to be an outgoing person, on the contrary, I am the one who reads quietly in the back of the room.

However, I think that in a way spending my time reading allowed me to improve on an intellectual level allowing me to feel more comfortable in my own skin.

I have grown throughout these years so much that I feel like the person I was when I came to this school as a freshman is now a stranger to me. I appreciate coach Duffy and Mrs. Lordi for always being there for me throughout all four years of my high school career. I have a solid support system of teachers and staff who have shown me kindness, compassion and honesty.

My favorite memories are the conversations I had with Mr. Marcial and Mr. Sandonato during AP Seminar this year. They told me that, "I will fail, but it's okay."

Although my favorite quote from Mr. Marcial was during self-defense training after the AP test, where he taught us about disarmament saying, "there was no bang!"

Everyone has helped me by impacting my decisions with words of advice. Always remember that a journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step, and I will always remember y'all for the rest of my life.

Kyla Stead ~ World News Editor

The freshman version of myself had no idea what was going to happen the next four years. So much has happened in and out of high school both good and bad, and although high school is not everything, it is still a huge part of my life. I'm saying goodbye, but the future is exciting to look forward to, and I'm grateful to all the people who made it what it was.

It is crazy to think of how I will never walk into this building for the same reasons again after graduating. I am never walking in to go to class with the same teachers or see the same people I have for the past four years, some since kindergarten.

From 9th grade to senior year, Mrs. Lordi has always been one of the most amazing and supportive teachers. When I started on staff, I was nervous about the expectations and work that I had to do. I was hopeful that this would be the class that helped me grow the most, and it was.

Although there have been many times that journalism has been the source of my stress, it has also brought so many amazing memories, friendships, life skills and lessons that I will take with me as I move forward. I am so thankful to Mrs. Lordi for pushing me to do my best and helping me find my passion for writing.

Change has always been an intimidating thing for me, and this is one of the biggest changes I will go through in my life so far. Seeing friends less and less is upsetting, but I know they are going to be insanely successful in whatever they pursue. I can't wait to see what they accomplish and what the future holds for us all.

Senior Farewells

Marisa Dambach - News Editor

Finally, I'm sitting down and writing this a few days past my deadline, and I still don't know how to sum up my time at DV. Coming into high school, I never could have imagined that I would become the News Editor of the Del.Aware or even be on the newspaper staff. I dislike English, I have no artistic ability and I could not imagine a class that involved me writing every day. It was my worst nightmare, but boy was I wrong.

During freshman year, I had Mrs. Lordi as my Honors English 9 teacher, and she soon became one of my favorite teachers. That being said, she was the reason I took Journalism 1 my junior year and all I can say is, I wish I took journalism a year earlier. Between writing articles about anything and everything and hearing the Three Pillars give out their issue specific awards, journalism will be a class I'll never forget.

So first I want to say thank you to Mrs. Lordi for exposing me to this writing style and inspiring me to become a sports journalist. Without you or this class, I would not be attending press conferences and writing game stories for a professional soccer team as a high school senior.

To Mrs. Duffy: I always felt I could come to you with anything. Thank you for being there and being my favorite teacher throughout high school and especially for Forensics B. Even though it was two years too late, thank you for talking with me about the NWSL and the WNBA that one morning and learning we share some of the same interests.

Thank you to Señor Vazquez, Mr. Farrell (even though he probably will not read this) and Mr. Barnett for allowing me to have the most fun in your classes. I will never forget the memories made.

With all that being said, this class was truly the best decision I have ever made. Some words of advice: if you ever want to take a class solely because of the teacher, do it. It might be the best decision of your life.

Kenzie Olsommer - Sports Editor

Graduating high school and going to college has always been something that I could not wait to do, but now that it is here, I think I could wait a little longer.

However, I am beyond excited to start the next chapter in my life and see what my future holds, but I hesitant to leave DV. I have literally grown up here.

Yes, DV is a school but for me, DV has been my second home, and the people I have met have become like family to me.

With both of my parents working in the district, as a baby, I was always on campus with them. My dad would take me to football practices year-round and it was like I had 50 big brothers.

As I got older, I started to learn the work ethic and the sacrifices needed, to become a great athlete while around the football program.

For my entire life, Coach Q has been supportive and always wanted the best for me. I started running for him as a little kid at speed camps each summer and now this past year, I ran track with him as my coach.

The school trainers, Josh and Sharon, have also guided me through some really tough injuries, and I can't thank them enough for being there for me.

I would also like to thank all my teachers that I have had in the past years who have guided me to where I am today. I would especially like to thank Dr. Cos, Mrs. Lordi, coach Ryder, coach Smith and coach Cavallaro for having such an impact on me. You all have made my high school experience so much better.

As for the friends I have made in the past four years — I wouldn't want to change anything. I can't believe that we will be leaving each other and going to separate schools.

Time has flown by. As upsetting as it is, I am excited to see what my future has in store for me when go to school and play field hockey at Old Dominion University.

Hailey Alexandre will be attending Pace University with a major in Early Childhood education.

The program that has affected Hailey the most is yearbook club. She joined her sophomore year and it introduced her to more people and helped her grow as a person.

"I got to be a part of something that a lot of the school would enjoy and that kind of pressure made me appreciate the club as a whole and the people involved," Hailey said.

The teachers who impacted her school career the most are Mr. Guzenski and Mrs. Lordi. Mr. Guzenski encouraged Hailey to do what she loved and to always be herself. Similar to Mr. Guzenski, Mrs. Lordi lifted Hailey's mood when she was down and showed her that school does not have to be boring or stressful.

"She is definitely the type of teacher I want to be," Hailey said.

- Reilly Ziolkowski

HAILEY ALEXANDRE

"Don't count the days, make the days count."

- Muhammad Ali

Isabella Anderson, also known as Bella, has been hugely involved throughout high school. She was on the cheer team, National Honor Society, the WE Mentor Program and in the Healthcare Occupations CTE program.

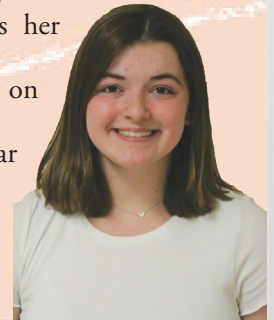

Bella will be attending Temple University majoring in special education for pre-K and K-12. She also has an interest in studying more about amputation and physical therapy.

Bella has been in the Healthcare Occupations CTE program since sophomore year where she met Mrs. Coyle. Mrs. Coyle has always been there for Bella during rough days.

Another person who impacted her was her cheer coach Mrs. Marchetti.

"Mrs. Marchetti always believed in me on and off the mat," she said.

Her greatest memory during her senior year was her last cheer competition. Bella's role models are her parents who always do their best to help her become the person she wants to be.

- Alex Krakowski

BELLA ANDERSON

"With enough hard work, you can achieve anything you desire."

- Isabella Anderson

Shane Anderson will be heading to King's College once he graduates to continue playing football and study special education and early childhood education.

Attending DV has given Shane the tools to further his education and insight into special education.

Aside from being on the varsity football team, Shane has helped out with the Special Olympics. He said that being involved in these activities has shaped him into a better person.

Coach Quaglia impacted Shane throughout high school.

"He is just a nice guy and I really like him. He made me want to go to class," he said.

Shane's biggest role model is his dad.

"He has shown me what mental strength is and how to deal with problems," he said.

He said his favorite memory from high school is when he gave senior Ajay Byadgi a haircut in the bathroom.

- Mackenzie Olsommer

SHANE ANDERSON

"Free Thug and Gunna."

- Shane Anderson

Katelyn Barcelowsky will be going to Westchester University to major in nutrition.

Katelyn was on the swim team all throughout high school. She also played JV soccer and participated in Student Council her junior year. Swimming helped Katelyn find balance between school, sports and work. Being involved also helped her learn to manage her time better.

Katelyn will miss being involved in the community and the amazing opportunities DV gave her. A teacher who made a lasting impact on Katelyn is Señor Cotroneo because he was always understanding about deadlines and is always positive.

Katelyn's role model is her mom because she's a good leader and always looks for the best in people. Katelyn's advice for underclassmen is to try their best and as long as you know that you tried your best, that's what's most important.

- Meaghan Hunt

KATELYN BARCELOWSKY

"Failure is not the opposite of success. It is part of success."

SENIOR PROFILES

Nuria Bary will be studying to become a physician's assistant at a college that is currently undecided.

Throughout high school, she has been primarily involved in FBLA and has volunteered for Day of Caring. During her time in FBLA, Nuria had quite a few accomplishments. For the regional test, she placed second in her event. At the state competition, she placed seventh overall in the state.

A teacher who impacted Nuria the most throughout high school was Miss Ripa.

"She's so sweet and so happy all the time," she said.

Nuria said that her role models are her sisters because they always look like they know what they are doing.

One of her favorite high school memories is when her best friend would skip class to eat lunch with her. Something she will miss about DV is all of the people and her friends she's made.

- Marisa Dambach

NURIA BARY

"Thanks Quizlet for this diploma."

- Nuria Bary

Ryan Battaglia has played football for DV since middle school, and his hard work and dedication to the sport has earned him the opportunity to play Division II collegiate football. Ryan will be attending Bloomsburg University to major in criminal justice.

He said that football left a mark on his leadership skills, as he gained them as his high school career progressed. He will miss being able to play football with his childhood friends.

"The thing I will mostly miss about football in high school is the people I grew up playing with," Ryan said. "It will be the last time I will ever play with them again."

He is looking forward to being able to play at the next level and being able to continue his playing career. He is also looking forward to the college football experience.

His role models for athletics consist of NFL Hall of Famer Mean Joe Greene and NBA legend Michael Jordan.

- Aidan McBride

RYAN BATTAGLIA

"Love yourself and realize whatever you attempt to achieve in life is a direct reflection of you."

- Mean Joe Greene

Sydney Bolles will be attending Lock Haven University to major in pre-physician's assistant and continue her soccer career at the Division II level.

Sydney's involvement in the Health Occupations CTE program allowed her to decide she wanted to have a career in healthcare. Along with HOSA, she participated on the varsity soccer team and National Honor Society.

"They [extracurriculars] exposed me to many great people and amazing opportunities. It shaped me to be the person I am today," she said.

The teacher who impacted Sydney the most is Mrs. Pope. She described Mrs. Pope as "very supportive and very motivational."

She says her favorite memory was hearing coach Rainear sing "Party in the U.S.A." on the bus ride home after beating Wallenpaupack freshman year.

- Marisa Dambach

SYDNEY BOLLES

"If no one comes from the future to stop you from doing it, then how bad of a decision can it really be."

Skyler Bower will be missed by students and staff at the high school after graduation.

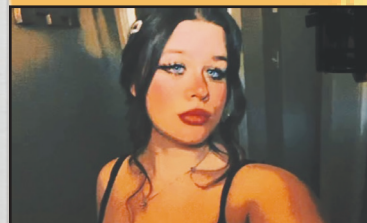

Throughout her years at DV, she has learned the value of showing kindness and letting things go that are not within her control.

Skyler is involved in varsity swim, is the former vice president of Interact Club, National Honor Society and a former choir member.

A role model that Skyler admires for her kindness is Mrs. Duffy.

"She is an amazing teacher and she always puts a smile on my face. She always made sure I was okay and on my off days she was somebody I could easily go to," she said.

Skyler's favorite memory from high school was participating in the spirit games sophomore year.

After graduation, Skyler plans to attend Penn State University majoring in human development and family studies.

- Sophia Perrin

SKYLER BOWER

"If you look at what you have in life, you'll always have more. If you look at what you don't have in life, you'll never have enough."

SENIOR PROFILES

Gavin Buckley is known around the halls of DV for his charismatic personality, curly hair and varsity position on the tennis team.

Throughout high school, he participated in Future Business Leaders of America, Junior Historians and Mock Trial while also acting as a co-captain of the tennis team and a manager for the girls tennis team. Gavin credits much of his success to DV's staff, especially Mr. Bailer.

"DV helped give me the knowledge I needed to go to my next step, and Mr. Bailer was the person who convinced me to play tennis in college, and to even go to college in the first place," he said.

His favorite memory was dominating the tennis tournament his freshman year in gym class and winning an exclusive bagel party.

Gavin will attend Albright College and will play on the Division III tennis team. He plans to major in business management with a minor in film studies.

- Liz Kameen

GAVIN BUCKLEY

"I started being really proud of the fact that I was gay even though I wasn't."

- Kurt Cobain

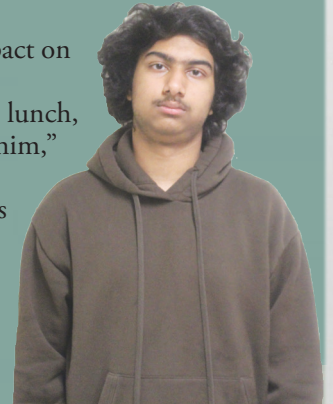

Throughout his academic career at DV, Ajay Byadgi achieved plenty of success while also being involved in various programs. Ajay will be continuing his education at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute with an undeclared engineering major and a possible minor in physics.

During all four years of high school, Ajay was a member of the Engineering Club. He also tutored other students in various math subjects.

The teacher who had the biggest impact on Ajay was Mr. Rhule.

"Sometimes he taught me during lunch, and I thought that was very generous of him," Ajay said.

Ajay will miss being around his friends everyday. His favorite memories came from lunch time since he was around his friends everyday.

- Aidan McBride

AJAY BYADGI

"You need a little rain for a rainbow."

Aspen Capeci has contributed to every drama production in high school and middle school.

He has been a performer or stage crew member in over seven different shows, and after each of them, the sense of accomplishment has provided some of the best memories.

Beside the drama productions, something else that he will miss most about high school are the people that he is around every day.

Aspen will be attending Pace University, and his major is currently undecided. However, with his growing interest in art, that will be his main focus for the time being. Working on set design for the drama productions has heavily influenced why he began to have an interest in art.

One teacher who has made an impact on his life is Mrs. Duffy.

"She has always been very supportive of me and anything I want to do. She is also a great role model," he said.

- Alex Krakowski

Aspen Capeci

"I exist as I am, that is enough."

- Walt Whitman

Daisey Carney has been a well known student athlete at DV for the past four years.

Athletically, Daisey has been on both the varsity cheer team and the lacrosse team. Academically, she is a member of National Honor Society and Rho Kappa. She said that being a part of these programs has made her a better student athlete, and she has become a more productive citizen. She will be attending Temple University to study exercise and sports science. Two teachers who have had an impact on Daisey are Mrs. Duffy and Mrs. Marchetti. Mrs. Duffy made her a better student and provided good study habits that she has used all through high school. Mrs. Marchetti has always been someone Daisey felt she could go to when she needed something.

Her role model is her cousin Skyler. Daisey said that Skyler has shown her how to work hard, especially in sports.

- Mackenzie Olsommer

Daisey Carney

"I wish I could 'put it in reverse Terry.'"

After high school, Jagger will be going to Matamoras to live there with his parents.

Jagger has taken part in the Warrior Games and job trials. In addition, he worked at a gym, Price Chopper and bowled. He enjoyed these activities because they were exciting.

Jagger's favorite person is Miss Nicole, but his role model is Miss Roxann.

"She [Miss Roxann] helps me read," Jagger said.

The favorite thing he has done during his time in DV is petting a tegu, a huge black and white lizard, in an aquarium.

He enjoys trivia questions and Wheel of Fortune, which is his favorite TV show. For video games, bowling games are Jagger's favorite because he said that they are easier than real life and likes it when he gets spares and strikes.

- Jeongho Koh

JAGGER CARROLL

"Always believe that something wonderful is about to happen."

- Unknown

Jade Cook is a student who has shown dedication to her theatrical talent throughout high school. She is attending Purchase College with a major in acting. Jade plans on continuing her education while also auditioning for theatrical roles.

She participated in many different activities, including band, orchestra, chorus, chamber choir, Drama Club, Harlem School of the Arts and Wingspan Arts Conservatory.

"I feel like if I didn't have as much experience performing, I would've gone a different direction," Jade said.

Having the opportunity to perform as much as possible helped her gain confidence in her field. Meeting new people and friends through these activities also inspired her to keep going.

Her dad is her role model, especially as an accomplished actor himself.

- Shaun Ryan

JADE COOK

"Don't assume the answer is no before you ask the question"

- Jade Cook

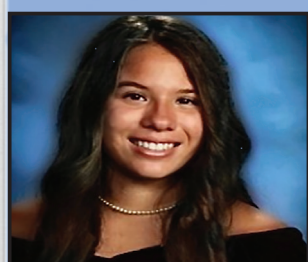

Victoria Corcoran is moving on to Worcester Polytechnic Institute where she will be majoring in psychology and cognitive studies. In college she will join their Division III swim team.

In high school, she was on the swim, track and soccer team. Academically, she was involved in FBLA, National Honor Society. She was also involved in Rho Kappa, Mu Alpha Theta and assisted in peer math tutoring.

Victoria liked the routine of school, seeing the same people since elementary school and knowing them. She also liked the same day-to-day schedule for her classes.

One of Victoria's favorite memories from high school was getting scared by Mrs. Duffy while teaching a lesson about response to stimuli. Senor Cotroneo was one of Victoria's favorite teachers because he taught her to not give up and not quit when something gets challenging.

- Meghan Hunt

VICTORIA CORCORAN

"Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things you didn't do than by the ones you did. So throw off the bowlines, sail away from the safe harbor."

- Mark Twain

After high school Matthew Cortes will be going to Millersville University to major in music education. He would like to be a music teacher after graduating from college.

Matt was a member of band, including marching band and jazz band. His favorite memories of high school were his jazz concerts because he was able to hang out with friends while demonstrating his skills and passion for jazz.

Matt's skills are not just limited to music, as he also is very good at Fortnite.

He shows his sociability when playing Fortnite, and he became a more social person as a result of his experiences in band. Mr. Bullock and Mr. Marcial were his favorite teachers because their teaching styles are very different and unique.

"[Mr. Bullock and Mr. Marcial] exposed me to different types of music and made me want to be a teacher," Matt said.

- Nick Gelardi

MATT CORTES

Gabbi Courtright, crowned prom queen of 2022, has been one of the most beloved students by both students and staff.

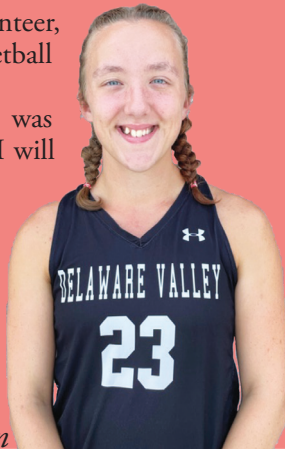

Gabbi is involved in high school organizations such as executive board member of National Honor Society, National Art Honor Society, vice president of Mu Alpha Theta, math peer tutoring and HOBY. She is also a varsity field hockey, basketball and lacrosse player, a Special Olympics volunteer, Warrior Fest volunteer and a youth girls basketball coach and referee.

"I was voted prom queen which was unexpected and really exciting, and overall I will always remember that night," she said.

Gabbi admires all of her teachers and coaches but especially coach Salak for her ability to foster a family atmosphere yet maintain a competitive spirit.

Gabbi's unsure which college she will attend, but she will become part of the PA National Guard's ROTC program.

- Sophia Perrin

GABBI COURTRIGHT

"The key to success is to start before you are ready."

Planning to attend Arcadia University, Isaak Courtright will be majoring in chemistry and wants to work in the forensic science field.

At DV, he has been a member of the tennis team, Quiz Bowl, math peer tutoring, National Honor Society, Rho Kappa, the Forensic Science Club, Programming Club, Engineering Club and the Governor STEM team.

Being a part of the Quiz Bowl team has given Isaak the opportunity to find new ways of learning. One of his favorite high school memories is when Quiz Bowl qualified two teams for Nationals, and there was an intense tiebreaker.

Mr. DeVizia and Mr. Wyckoff are teachers who have especially impacted Isaak. They were able to always be there and available for help and questions he had.

As advice for underclassmen, Isaak said to take classes seriously and not wait until a stressful senior year to start thinking about your future.

- Kyla Stead

ISAAK COURTRIGHT

"One cannot experience true joy without the threat of suffering."

- Neal Shusterman

Ralph Courtright III is a hardworking young man with an interest in both construction and history, among many other things. Ralph will be pursuing a career fueled by his passion at the Pennsylvania College of Technology to major in construction management. He is, above all else, thankful for his CTE building program's teachers Mr. Fitzpatrick and Mr. Ventre.

"Words are unable to express the gratitude I have for them," he said.

In high school, Ralph participated in National History Day and the Scholastic Bowl. He holds that they have both significantly impacted him.

"Scholastic Bowl allowed me to meet those with similar interests and nerd out," Ralph said.

He marks his father as his greatest role model, since he worked diligently against the odds to become successful.

- James Zayatz

RALPH COURTRIGHT

"Ten people who speak make more noise than ten thousand who are silent."

- Napoleon Bonaparte

Shannon Croll is best known at DV for her athletic ability and kind personality.

Shannon is a member of the varsity field hockey and lacrosse teams, as well as a member of the National Honor Society.

Throughout her high school career, her experiences have provided her with lifelong friendships who offer her great advice.

One of her favorite memories from high school is the bus rides to and from games for both field hockey and lacrosse.

A teacher Shannon sees as a role model is Mrs. Gonzalez.

"She has given me so much advice and guidance. I feel like she has always been there for me, and she has offered to help me in any way," she said.

Shannon plans to attend Marywood University majoring in architecture. She then hopes to work as a real estate agent and architect in construction management.

- Sophia Perrin

SHANNON CROLL

"Every little thing is going to be all right."

- Bob Marley

SENIOR PROFILES

Emily Cruz is known at DV for her athletic ability and participation in both varsity swim and lacrosse throughout her high school career.

Many of her favorite memories are from the lacrosse season.

"Messing around with my team and getting close with girls I never thought I would have been unforgettable," she said.

A person she admires is art teacher and coach Mrs. Thompson because she was Emily's coach all four years of lacrosse.

"She has had a great influence on who I became, and I will remember and use what I learned from her," she said.

Emily will be attending Temple University in the fall, double majoring in business management and entrepreneurship and innovation.

"I am most looking forward to having freedom to choose exactly what I want to do, when I need to, and how I'm going to get there," she said.

- Sophia Perrin

EMILY CRUZ

"Sorry officer, we're on our way to a function."

Quinn Curabba will be attending King's College to play Division III baseball. He will major in a physician assistant program and possibly minor in Spanish.

Quinn participated in cross country for two years and baseball for four years, as well as Mu Alpha Theta, Rho Kappa and the National Honor Society. These activities allowed him to fit in more with the school and be more involved, and he also enjoyed volunteering in the community.

Quinn attributes his path to college to his time at DV, with his math and science classes being especially beneficial to him. His favorite teacher is Mr. Cotroneo, and he inspired Quinn to minor in Spanish.

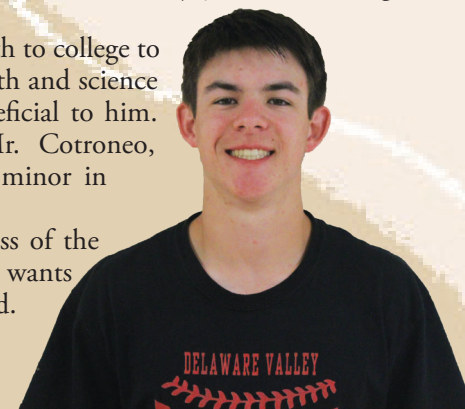

"I will miss the tightness of the community. Everyone here wants the best for you," Quinn said.

- Nick Gelardi

QUINN CURABBA

"Never allow the fear of striking out keep you from playing the game."

- Babe Ruth

Hailey Degli-Angeli is passionate about art and writing and plans to attend The Savannah College of Art and Design majoring in dramatic writing with a minor in film and cinema.

She was a member of the National Art Honor Society and took many art classes where her love for the arts grew. She was able to express herself and explore what her future may entail.

Dr. Lantz has impacted her more than any other teacher with her honesty and exciting life that she shares with her students.

"You can tell how much she cares about her students and their artwork. She has lived such an interesting life, including traveling and dabbling in many art forms," Hailey said.

She is also inspired by her mother and hopes to be as incredible as she is.

Hailey is going to miss the close group of friends she has stuck with since middle school.

- Kyla Stead

HAILEY DEGLI-ANGELI

"Pretty sure I said more in this interview than I have all throughout high school."

- Hailey Degli-Angeli

Dylan DeGroat will be heading to Johnson College, a trade school, with a major in automotive.

Dylan has been most majorly involved in the Co-Op program. Co-Op helped him because he was able to attend school and work at the same time.

Ms. Yanko and Mr. Barnett had a positive impact on Dylan because of their encouraging and positive attitude.

"I have watched Dylan grow into his own this year. His knowledge and skill set are far more advanced than anyone his age," Ms. Yanko said.

Dylan learned his hardworking behavior from his grandfather who is his role model. Just like how his grandfather taught him. Dylan advises underclassmen the same: to work hard and take class seriously.

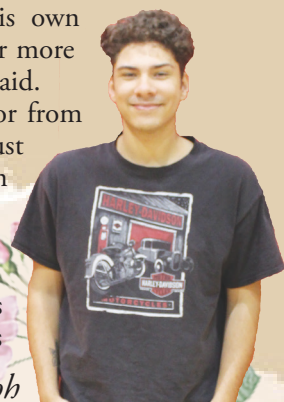

Besides advanced automotive skills, Dylan can play the saxophone. He loves riding his motorcycle when the weather is nice.

- Jeongho Koh

DYLAN DEGROAT

"Give me knowledge so I may have kindness for all."

Mirabella Demmo will be taking online courses at Sussex County Community College and is traveling to Hawaii, Japan and possibly Europe after high school. She is majoring in political science.

Some groups Mirabella was involved in include Odyssey of the Mind, Junior Historians and the stage crew for lights and sound.

These groups gave her the opportunity to make many friends and help her mature as a well-rounded individual.

Mirabella said her close friends and peers are her role models because it is inspiring to see their achievements.

Some of her favorite memories include submitting her AP portfolio and the world competitions for OM.

She advises underclassmen to do everything you can.

"High school is much more fulfilling when you fill it with things you love and people you love," she said.

- Kyla Stead

MIRABELLA DEMMO

"The more you give it away, the more love comes back to you every day."

- from "Always More" in "Barbie as the Island Princess"

Ryan Doherty was a remarkably skilled basketball player at DV. The sport would open up his friend group and give him new opportunities.

Following graduation, he will be attending West Chester University where he will major in exercise science, more specifically a pre-chiropractic course.

Sports gave Ryan some of his favorite memories from high school, which included his 30-point game against West Scranton and witnessing the football team beat Wallenpaupack 70-0.

His dad taught him everything he knows, which includes a distinct talent for the game of chess. Because of the impact he would have on his life, Ryan mentioned his dad alongside LeBron James and Malcolm X in his list of idols.

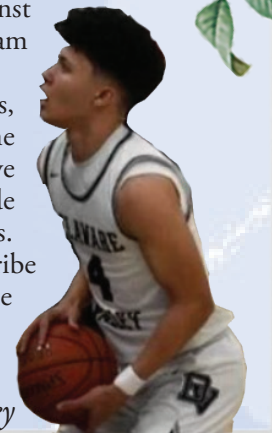

Ryan would only need two words to describe the speed at which high school passes and the importance of enjoying every minute of it, saying "Don't blink."

- Lucas Pauley

RYAN DOHERTY

"Sensational"

Anna Dudle is known for her kind and charismatic personality and her ability to put a smile on anyone's face.

Anna participated in Peer Buddies throughout high school where she was able to meet up with her friends and hang out with them.

She thanks DV for teaching her valuable life skills like math, time, money and tasks, such as how to get ready for work.

She looks up to her sister Rachel because she is always kind and helps her with things to do.

Anna's favorite memory of high school was when she visited Space Farms with her class and got to see her favorite animal, deer.

Anna also enjoyed spending time with her friends throughout her time at DV, especially Mickey, Shirley, Jaeger, Pierre, Mya and Claire.

In her spare time, Anna enjoys singing Disney songs and playing outside with her dog, Sunny.

After graduation, Noelani Felix will be entering the workforce where she will be working at the Village Diner to save up for college.

Noelani realized her love of art with the help of DV's art programs, she eventually wants to attain a teaching degree in art.

The teachers who have had the most impact on her time at DV were Mr. Marcial and Dr. Lantz.

"They are both very lovely to talk to and always willing to listen," Noelani said.

She was involved in DV's Odyssey of the Mind program for 10 years.

"The way I think and process situations changed completely [being in the program]," Noelani said.

What she'll miss the most about high school is wandering the halls and the friends she made throughout the years.

Theresa Ficken is attending Bucknell University with an undecided major.

She was a member of the soccer team, National Honor Society and Rho Kappa. These groups have helped her meet new people, learn time management skills and help become an effective leader.

Overall, DV has helped Theresa find the passion to succeed, desire to branch out and travel more.

"So many teachers have impacted me deeply, but my history teachers have all helped me form my love for history and politics," she said.

Theresa's family members are role models to her, as they have taught her to work hard, never give up and to be compassionate to others.

Her favorite memory from high school was being captain when the girl's soccer team qualified for states.

She advises underclassmen that there is so much more to look forward to after high school.

Jose Flores will be enrolling in Purdue University Online, which is a digital platform for college classes. He will be majoring in business administration.

Jose was in the Business CTE program during his time at DV, meaning he was also a part of running the school store.

He said that the teachers who had the biggest impact on him were Mr. Irwin, Miss Morelli and Mr. Luhrs.

"Mr. Irwin helped shape my character, Miss Morelli is a very joyful person," Jose said. "Mr. Luhrs was my CTE teacher for two years, and he was there for every monumental event. He also gives good life advice."

His favorite memories consist of creating Newton's Cradle in Physics class, his sophomore year with Mr. Irwin and the experience that came with virtual learning.

Ryan Freer has played football for Delaware Valley since 7th grade, and he was a two-year starter for the varsity team. During this past season, he earned the title of an honorary captain.

"[Football] has taught me that hard work pays off, how to handle adversity and other useful life lessons," Ryan said.

Although football proved to be valuable and important in Ryan's life, he is not playing in college, and he is attending Johnson College with a major in electrical construction.

When speaking about high school, Ryan said he will miss being able to talk to his friends the most. He also suggested that future students should put a good amount of effort into their school work and make an attempt to have good grades because it is important for having success in the long run.

"As cliché as it sounds, don't slack on your grades, it can really make or break your future plans," Ryan said.

After graduation, Christian Galimi will continue his athletic career and education at King's College where he will join their baseball team.

DV's lasting impact on him is helping him achieve a better education and the ability to play baseball in college.

Being a part of the baseball team has taught him time management skills and helped him become more organized when focusing on his work.

Once Christian leaves, what he will miss most about high school is the social environment where he was around the people he grew up with.

His advice for underclassmen is to give your best effort, listen to your teachers and stay on their good side.

A teacher who had an impact on Christian was Mr. Cykosky. During his walks outside, Mr. Cykoski would teach Christian what wild berries he could eat, as well as other dietary survival tips.

At King's, he plans to study business management, marketing or administration.

After graduation Meg Garrera will be attending Northampton Community College and majoring in funeral services.

In high school, Meg participated in the Healthcare CTE program. The class helped her figure out what part of health occupations she was truly interested in and is relieved to be going into college with a clear path. She is also grateful for the bonds she made in HOSA.

The teacher who has impacted her the most is Mrs. Marcial. Meg said that Mrs. Marcial taught her about hard work and dedication.

"I think her teaching style pushed me to do the best that I could, and I really appreciate her for it," Meg said.

Meg's biggest role models in high school were celebrities, like Winona Ryder, who go against social norms and do what makes them happy.

Her advice to underclassmen is "remember that high school is nothing like movies."

Courtney Hall is known at DV for her spectacular personality. After high school, she plans on taking a year off and eventually getting into a nursing program.

In high school, Courtney said that the person who had the biggest impact was Mr. Lanfrank. She said that whenever she sees him, her day just lights up.

Courtney's best friend throughout high school has been Ariellis Cruz.

"She's [Courtney] super energetic and a funny person. We are constantly laughing when we are together. We have basically become sisters at this point, and I know I could tell her just about anything," Ariellis said.

Courtney also works at a nursing home.

"Working at a nursing home is really fun. I love working with them and helping out with what needs to get done," she said.

As for underclassmen, "Don't be stupid. Do what you need to do. Don't let people peer pressure you." Courtney said.

Throughout highschool, Bobby Holderith was involved with a variety of teams, clubs and activities.

As an athlete, he was a talented member of the swim team where he would compete at the state competition. As a student, he was a member of the health care careers program, National Honor Society and Student Council. He also volunteered at a number of blood drives and highway cleanups.

Bobby said that these activities showed him what it is like to get involved with his community and that he was made a better person for being a part of them.

He believes that who he became as a person was influenced by looking up to his parents who he considers to be among his biggest role models.

His advice to underclassmen is to "focus on your grades, as stupid and corny as it sounds."

This fall Bobby will be leaving for Seton Hall University where he will major in nursing.

After graduation, Cyrus Jaeger will be enlisting in the military and joining the Army National Guard.

In high school he was involved with both the Co-Op and CTE programs. They taught him how to work as a team and to be more responsible.

"Cyrus has been dedicated since day one. His desire to succeed is unmatched; I have no doubt he will go far in the future," Co-Op adviser Mrs. Yanko said.

DV has impacted his future by allowing him to develop more skills for his occupation and solidifying his interest in construction. His interest in construction has given Cyrus the opportunity to work on million-dollar houses.

The teacher who impacted him the most was Mr. Fitzpatrick. From Mr. Fitzpatrick, he learned useful trades that he plans to use in the future.

Like many others, his favorite memory from high school was the Spirit Games.

On the soccer field, it would be hard to find someone who worked as hard as Travis Kelly. Until his face was pale and his lips were purple, Travis fought for his team every minute he was on the field.

Bus rides home from away games and diving headers in the mud his freshman year would be some of Travis's favorite memories.

In his sophomore year, Travis hurt his back while playing soccer. During the rehabilitation process, he was inspired to study physical therapy and exercise science.

Travis considers his brother to be one of his biggest role models.

He considers Mr. Murray, who both taught and coached him, for "scaring him straight" and helping him mature as a person.

In his advice to underclassmen, Travis echoed a common phrase of Mr. Murray, "Drugs are bad."

After leaving DV, he will be heading to Slippery Rock University where he will major in physical therapy.

Mike Vigilante is a student who is dedicated to the arts. He will be attending Marymount Manhattan College and is majoring in musical theater.

During his time at DV, he participated in many activities regarding music. Concert band, jazz band, marching band, drama club, chorus, chamber choir and marching band are just a few of Mike's contributions to the arts.

These activities had guided him to his future career. Participating in music not only taught him how to work effectively in music and theater, but also provided a clear path into his future.

"They [extracurriculars] taught me discipline and teamwork. It made me realize how much I love the arts," Mike said.

He would like to thank Mr. Guzenski, Mr. Horst, Mr. Bullock and his friends inspired him throughout his years at DV.

During his time at DV, Michael Villafane was a part of the football and track programs. He is attending Penn State University (Scranton campus) for his first two years of college with a major in business, then he is transferring to the main campus with the goal of playing football.

Mike was a wide receiver for the football team, and he participated in the 100M, 200M, 4x1 and 4x4 for track.

According to Mike, sports made him a better person, kept him out of trouble and allowed him to build close relationships with his teammates.

He will miss being able to see his friends everyday.

Mike's favorite memory was winning Districts and playing in the state playoffs for football during his junior and senior years.

His advice for the underclassmen is to "actually care about grades," as he said they are very important. He also encourages students to play a sport in high school.

Stella Weir has contributed much of her time to bettering herself at DV. She is attending the University of Pittsburgh, majoring in biology this fall.

She has participated in countless clubs and activities including varsity cross country, track and field, swim and dive, FBLA, orchestra, marching band and concert band.

Stella enjoyed challenging herself by engaging in all these activities and making new friends along the way. .

"It allowed me to develop abilities I didn't know I had," she said.

Stella moved to the district after living in the city and feels that DV prepared her more for college and offered more opportunities to further herself.

Prom was one of her favorite high school memories. She is going to miss her friends and being able to see them everyday.

She would like to thank her parents for inspiring and pushing her.

Lily Williams was part of many activities including dance, National Honor Society Executive Board and was even president of FBLA.

These activities have taught Lily to become a leader and that hard work and dedication pay off.

Lily plans on attending Penn State University Schreyer Honors College in the fall majoring in biochemistry and molecular biology. She also plans on furthering her education to obtain a master's degree and a Ph.D.

Her love of biology stems from one of her teachers, Mrs. Pope.

"She showed me my love for biology and has helped me as my mentor for my research project. It's what I want to do for the rest of my life," she said.

Her favorite high school memories are attending the FBLA State Leadership Conference. She says the trip proved to be a busy but very fun experience.

Seth Williams plans to attend Wilkes University after graduation, majoring in marketing and minoring in psychology. He would like to have a job in the human resources department after college.

Seth played for the soccer team and was a member of FBLA during his time in high school. These activities taught him how to work with people, build a strong team image and push him outside of his comfort zone.

"Don't be scared to try new things. Don't limit yourself to a certain level of classes," Seth said.

His favorite memory of DV was Mr. Murray's Economics class.

"I have never enjoyed learning as much as I did in his class," Seth said.

The teachers who influenced him the most were his soccer coaches Mr. Murray and Mr. Stark, who pushed Seth past what he was capable of.

He was also influenced by Mrs. Propst, who reminded him to have a good time during school.

Skyler Woodley will be going to Millersville University, and he will major in marine biology while minoring in oceanography. He also earned a $40,000 scholarship to go there. Skyler plans on going into a field of research when he graduates from college.

Skyler was a member of both the track and field and cross country teams. His junior year on the cross country team was his favorite memory of high school.

These sports are also what Skyler will miss the most about high school. He advises underclassmen to give themselves an opportunity to make these memories.

His favorite teacher from his time in high school was Ms. Salak, and his favorite class was his AP Environmental Science which she teaches. Skyler was also a part of the Environmental Club.

Being involved in track and cross country along with the Environmental Club allowed him to meet new people and make new friends.

Michael Wright, otherwise called The Mug Man, is known for his sense of humor during classes and his determination to always be there for his friends. After high school, he will go straight into boot camp for the Marines Corps.

He is interested in either going into an engineering or logistics field but is passionate about going into combat at least once. He is looking at doing 20 years of active duty after boot camp. Unless the opportunity arises for him to be a commissioned officer, he will not be going into a college during his time.

Michael's advice to underclassmen is: "If you're going to do something, then do it. You're gonna end up regretting it if you don't do it."

His favorite and funniest memory over the years was slipping on a towel in the culinary locker room and falling on his face.

After high school Michael will miss his teacher the most, especially those that impacted his education and made an effort to help him.

After high school, Sawyer Yoncak will be enjoying traveling abroad during a gap year from school. In that year, he will also be working as a ferry operator and at a flower shop called Bashful Blooms.

In high school, Sawyer participated in both Odyssey of the Mind and diving. He said that both of these activities have helped him build friendships and bonds with those around him.

Delaware Valley and its teachers have impacted Sawyer immensely.

"It [Delaware Valley] has given me respect for authority and helped me realize my potential while opening doors to opportunities I didn't know I had," Sawyer said.

The teachers who have left the biggest mark on him are Mrs. Shatt, Mrs. France and Miss Morelli.

Some of his best memories have been with friends. For example he recalls times they would run through the school after hours.

"Stay positive and be sure to avoid negative influences," Sawyer advises the underclassmen.

John Michael Zirpoli is best known at DV for his musical ability.

Throughout his high school career, John Michael has been involved in marching band, jazz band, concert band, symphony, pit band and junior historians.

"My favorite memory was going to Metlife Stadium to compete for marching band. Playing on the field was an amazing experience," he said.

A role model he admires is Mr. Bullock for helping him to excel with his passion of music since middle school.

"It wasn't until the time restraints of high school that I had to choose a path. I learned that I could no longer do everything, and this helped me discover my career path," he said.

John Michael plans to attend Millersville University where he will double major in music education and music performance.
