

Leah O'Brien, a junior at Delaware Valley High School, is a great example of a well-balanced high school student. She is loves being involved in her school and her community. "It gives me a chance to learn new things, meet new people, and create a better environment for myself," she said. O'Brien is a member of Student Council, girls' soccer and serves as a manager for the football team. She also finds time to be part of the CROP walk and Relay for Life. She is also a volunteer for the local food pantry. "Volunteering has taught me the importance in helping others in every way possible," O'Brien said. "Doing anything to help a person in need is one of the most rewarding feelings I have ever felt." O'Brien wants to be remembered as a hard working student who did everything possible to help better herself and others around her.
